Christian Employers Alliance Gratified by Supreme Court's Ruling to Stay the OSHA Vaccine Mandate

CEA members and their employees are relieved with today's favorable ruling to stop federal overreach.

The following quote may be attributed to Christian Employers Alliance president Shannon O. Royce, J.D., regarding the U.S. Supreme Court's decision Thursday to halt implementation of the Biden administration's COVID-19 vaccine mandate for large, private employers, issued via the Occupational Safety and Health Administration:

"Members of the Christian Employers Alliance are gratified and relieved the Supreme Court decided to stay the Biden Administration's excessive OSHA vaccine mandate while the case is litigated. As unelected and unaccountable bureaucrats continue to find ways to invade the homes and workplaces of Americans, we continue to pray for a favorable final ruling — one that addresses the concerns raised in our case to protect the religious freedom of CEA member employers to treat their employees who have conscience or religious objections to the vaccine with dignity and respect."
